The Memory of Water (winner of the millennial Laurence Olivier Award for Best Comedy) revolves around Vi's funeral. The main mourners are three sisters who don't think they have much in common.

Teresa, the eldest, is settled in life but bearing a grudge about having been left to care for Vi as her Alzheimer's developed.

Mary, the middle-child, is a doctor in a five year relationship with a man who is married to someone else.

Catherine is the youngest, prone to bingeing on shopping, love affairs and drugs. And let's not forget the soon-to-buried Vi!

Whilst she is visible only to Mary, her presence is apparent to all three as they bicker, drink and remember (or mis-remember!) their mother and their shared pasts ... and realise they're maybe not as different as they thought.

A ghost story? Not really.

A tragedy? Of sorts.

A comedy? Absolutely! - laughter is as much a guest at this funeral as grief.
